Fairface launched in February 2018 brings the fair face of businesses with genuine feedbacks in front of other consumers. We help collect and publish reviews for business and give the business an opportunity to showcase what their loyal customers have to say about them online.

We help in reputation management of a business by giving them right to collect and publish the reviews onto their website. Business can also send invites to their customers for feedback using our sophisticated integrated invitation dashboard.

Fairface has helped thousands of businesses gain more customers using our platform and gain better reputation online. Our platform can also be used to give businesses an extra edge with the star rating to stand out of the rest competitors in the online world.
Problem

Our analysis shows that after multiple reminders less than 10% of customers respond to invitation and write reviews on the businesses.

Review platforms are centralized. Customers search for reviews on different websites before taking a decision.

Building trust between Business and customer.
Solution

To increase user engagement Fairface introduces FAF tokens as a reward to the customers when they write the review. [Our survey shows that customer engagement to write reviews would be more than 90% if we reward customers for sharing their experiences. ]

Fairface powered by FAF tokens will be soon implementing the first of its kind decentralized data-driven review network.

Fairface decentralized network integrates reviews from other websites which can be referred as single source point for customers.

Building the trust by using validators.

Fairface AI engine to cover a broad range of products and services by various businesses around the world.
Fairface powered by FAF tokens will be soon implementing the first of its kind decentralized data-driven review network on the blockchain using AI to cover a broad range of products and services by various businesses around the world.

The goal of our review network is to provide a verified, trustable, single source point to the customers by integrating all reviews available on different websites. This will enable customers to take more informed decisions.

Businesses can configure their own criteria while requesting customer reviews. Powered by AI capabilities our analytical tools will generate reports to the businesses about their customer satisfaction levels measured in different areas helping them to improve and retain customers.
How it works

Introducing FAF tokens (Phase-I)
Introducing FAF tokens (Phase-I)

Send An Invitation
Business sends invitation to the customers to write a review on their latest experience on service or product delivery.

Write Review
Customers clicks the invitation link, creates account and writes a review on that business.

Claim FAF Tokens
Customer will be credited with FAF tokens once the review is been verified

Redeem FAF tokens
Customer can redeem FAF tokens with the participating businesses or can transfer to their personal wallet and also can convert to other digital currencies.
